During the panel discussion attendees will hear how the cloud is transforming the way businesses purchase and consume technology and transforming the traditional supply chain so that the lines between supplier and partner are blurred. The question then is what will become of distribution in this emerging cloud ecosystem? In this roundtable, Cloud Partners invites leading distribution companies — IT distributors and telecom master agencies — to discuss how they are evolving their businesses to enable their sales partners to accelerate success in the cloud.

Our expanded Agent program, now with very competitive commissions, is the product of a commitment by the Equinix executive team to accelerate long term growth through our partners.
