Mandalay Digital Launches Digital Turbine Ignite in Turkey with Avea

Leading Turkish Mobile Carrier Deploys Ignite on Android Devices

LOS ANGELES, May 20, 2013 /PRNewswire/ -- Mandalay Digital Group, Inc. (OTC Markets: MNDL), a global mobile content provider and Avea, a leading Turkish mobile operator with 13.7 million customers and part of Turk Telekom group, today announced a 3-year deal and integration of Mandalay Digital's mobile application management solution, Digital Turbine Ignite. The Ignite platform provides Avea the ability to manage and control its pre and post app installations on all Android devices. The solution will initially be launched on Avea "inTouch 2."

"Our partnership with Avea in launching Digital Turbine Ignite is particularly exciting as global carriers continue to integrate our next-generation solutions to better manage and monetize mobile content," stated Peter Adderton, Chief Executive Officer of Mandalay Digital Group. "Through our pre and post installation management solution, Digital Turbine Ignite puts power back in the hands of the carriers allowing them to control and monetize part of the application process."

"By integrating Digital Turbine Ignite, we're increasing our overall operational efficiency and productivity in launching new devices into the market that provide a better user experience for our customers," stated Dehşan Ertürk, Chief Marketing Officer, Avea. "The full suite of services and analytics offered by the Ignite platform is unparalleled on the market and will most definitely have a positive impact on our bottom line."

Digital Turbine Ignite is a complete mobile application management solution that enables mobile operators and OEMs to control, manage and monetize the applications that are installed (pre or post) on smartphone devices. Digital Turbine Ignite controls the process of installing applications, allowing mobile operators and OEMs to obtain recurring revenues as the installation of applications can be controlled via remote server at any time. In addition Digital Turbine Ignite offers personalized service packages and application bundles and provides tools for full analysis and reporting.
