It's the fuel that powers peak performance, accelerates recovery, and gives athletes the edge when it matters most."

USANA and the JBSF first began their partnership in early 2024, and in November of this year, the Federation reached new heights when the 4-man bobsled team earned its first-ever gold medal at an international event, taking the top podium spot at the North American Cup in Whistler, Canada.

"I am beyond excited to see our partnership with the JBSF extended," said Brent Neidig, USANA's chief commercial officer. "This collaboration reflects USANA's commitment to supporting dedicated, high-performing athletes across all disciplines. The JBSF exemplifies perseverance, discipline, and a drive for excellence—values that align closely with our own. We are proud to provide the team with the trusted nutrition they need as they prepare for the upcoming Olympic Games, and we look forward to supporting their continued success in the years ahead."
