AMD Announces Pricing of Private Offering of $500 Million of Senior Notes

SUNNYVALE, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Advanced Micro Devices, Inc. (NYSE:AMD) today announced that it has agreed to sell $500 million aggregate principal amount of its 8.125% Senior Notes due 2017 in a private offering. AMD intends to close the transaction on November 30, 2009.

AMD estimates that the net proceeds from the issuance and sale of the senior notes will be approximately $439 million after deducting original issue discount of 10.204%, the initial purchasers' discounts and estimated transactions expenses. AMD intends to use the net proceeds, along with existing cash, to purchase its 5.75% Convertible Senior Notes due 2012 validly tendered pursuant to the company's tender offer for such notes, which was previously announced. Net proceeds not used in the tender offer, if any, will be used for general corporate purposes.

The new senior notes have not been registered under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, or applicable state securities laws, and will be offered only to qualified institutional buyers in reliance on Rule 144A and in offshore transactions pursuant to Regulation S under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. Unless so registered, the new senior notes may not be offered or sold in the United States except pursuant to an exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act and applicable state securities laws.

This press release shall not constitute an offer to sell or the solicitation of an offer to buy these securities, nor shall there be any sale of these securities in any state in which such offer, solicitation or sale would be unlawful prior to registration or qualification under the securities laws of any such state.
