The study is expected to enroll 100 healthy volunteers with each to receive 10 mg of THC orally, and then randomized to one of three doses of ANEB-001 or placebo. The Company expects topline results to be available in the first half of 2022.

Management Commentary

"We are pleased with our progress toward initiating the Phase 2 clinical study of ANEB-001 for the treatment of patients with acute cannabinoid intoxication later this year. As the number of emergency department visits related to cannabis intoxication continues to increase by approximately 15% annually, we believe there is a significant unmet medical need for our drug candidate,” stated Daniel Schneeberger, M.D., Chief Executive Officer of Anebulo. “The manufacture of finished product for ANEB-001 was a critical step in preparation for our proof-of-concept study in the Netherlands. In addition, we were delighted to announce the formation of our SAB with founding members who bring significant expertise in emergency medicine and medical toxicology. We intend to expand the SAB over time and look forward to their valuable contributions for our initial indication, as well as in the exploration of other potential indications to expand our addressable market.”

About ANEB-001

Anebulo believes ANEB-001 is an asset with a well-understood mechanism of action. ANEB-001 is a competitive antagonist at the human CB1 receptor with an affinity of 0.6nM with good oral bioavailability and brain penetration (brain:plasma ratio = 1.5). ANEB-001 has been shown to antagonize THC-induced hypolocomotion in mice, a CB1 receptor-mediated response.

ANEB-001 is being developed to be administered as an oral treatment, reaches potentially therapeutic blood levels within 30 minutes and is believed to rapidly reverse the signs and symptoms of cannabinoid overdose in as little as one hour. Anebulo believes there is a low likelihood of drug-drug interactions as preclinical testing demonstrated that ANEB-001 does not inhibit the metabolic cytochromes 1A2, 2C9, 2C19, 2D6 and 3A4 at pharmacologically relevant concentrations. No product is approved for acute cannabinoid intoxication and Anebulo is not aware of any competing products to reverse the symptoms of cannabinoid intoxication that are further along in the development process than ANEB-001.
