Cleveland-Cliffs Terminates Wabush Mines Sales Negotiations

CLEVELAND--(BUSINESS WIRE)--

Cleveland-Cliffs Inc (NYSE: CLF) announced today that it has terminated negotiations to sell its 26.8% interest in the Wabush Mines joint venture to ArcelorMittal Dofasco Inc. The Company entered into discussions with Dofasco in September 2007 and until today negotiations had been ongoing.

"Cliffs believes that terminating negotiations and remaining a partner in the Wabush Mines joint venture is the best course of action for all stakeholders at the current time," said Donald J. Gallagher, president of Cliffs' North American Business Unit.

Wabush, located in Canada, has been operating since 1965. It produced 4.6 million tons of iron ore pellets in 2007, and includes Scully Iron Ore Mine near Wabush, Newfoundland, Labrador; the pellet plant and port facilities at Pointe Noire, Quebec; and integrated rail facilities and other assets.
