SinglePoint, Inc. Subsidiary SingleSeed Payments Launches Premiere Website Boosting Sales Past Initial Projections

SEATTLE--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- "HERE WE GROW!" states CEO Greg Lambrecht. Through the efforts of SinglePoint, Inc. subsidiary SingleSeed Payments, 24 terminals have been shipped to recreational stores and medical dispensaries to date, up seventeen from July. Which puts SingleSeed on pace to become one of the largest payment solution providers to the cannabis industry.

Many new clients have come through SingleSeeds newly released website www.singleseed.com, as well as SingleSeeds ad with Leafly which generated over 1,000 unique views in the first two weeks and has been renewed to run again. GeekWire.com recently ran an article <http://bit.ly/SingleSeed-Leafly> that has help spread the recognition of SingleSeed throughout the US.

CEO Greg Lambrecht comments, "I am very pleased with the success of the website, it provides instant validation for our company and has increased our inbound sales traffic week over week ... we had a plan to build a great website, generate new accounts and lead this market with our technology and we are doing it."

SingleSeed sales efforts are paying off. Garnering more accounts each week. In an effort to be a payments empire in the estimated 40 billion dollar (according to CNBC.com) cannabis industry SingleSeed is implementing a responsive sales strategy preparing to grow their team beyond their already established teams in Washington, Denver, Oregon and Arizona. SingleSeed and SinglePoint are actively engaged in acquisitions to further company growth and account acquirement.

In our goal of becoming a nationally known brand, SingleSeed recently attended two shows in Seattle, Washington and will be attending the Oregon International Cannabis Business Conference, Oregon Medical Marijuana Cup, and the Las Vegas Marijuana Conference and Business Expo among many more.
