These are the high-level features of a detailed platform geared to enable small businesses to compete with the giants of Target, Wal-Mart and others that are providing Click to Shop solutions. The agnostic platform works for any genre of business from cannabis delivery services to pizza shops. Merchants can set up from order inception to delivery completion or just use the dispatch and track capabilities.

In today's fast paced, information rich world, customers shouldn't be left in the dark about when a delivery may arrive. Time windows of 8-12 or 12-4 are not convenient. LastMile Delivery ultimately aims to help improve customer satisfaction and repeat business through removing friction and keeping customers engaged throughout their product or service delivery experience.

SinglePoint and AppSwarm (SWRM) have worked together to develop and launch the platform which both management teams believe will help provide customers of small and mid-size businesses with extraordinary experiences.
