Anuvu Teams up with Marvel Entertainment to Bring New Inflight Games to Airline Passengers

The collaboration supports Anuvu's efforts to deliver popular and future-forward media and content options to airlines

Los Angeles, CA, April 26, 2022 – Anuvu, the leading provider of high-speed connectivity and entertainment solutions for demanding worldwide mobility markets, today announced a new collaboration with Marvel Entertainment. The multi-year deal brings several of Marvel's popular characters to airline passengers around the globe, building on Anuvu's existing collaboration with Disney.

Working closely with Marvel, Anuvu will bring some of the company's most notable franchises to passengers' inflight entertainment experience. The collaboration comes at a time when Anuvu is focused on supporting airlines in future-proofing their media and content strategies, as passengers demand increased flexibility and convenience, including streaming capabilities. The new deal allows airlines to provide Marvel's games through their seatback entertainment systems or stream directly to passengers' personal devices while onboard the aircraft in the air.

"Anuvu has had a longstanding relationship with Disney for over 15 years. Expanding our collaboration to include Marvel content and characters is a natural next step," says Mike Pigott, EVP of Connectivity at Anuvu. "By broadening our trusted and valued relationship, we expand our gaming catalog so that airlines can deliver flexible, affordable, and best-in-class gaming experiences to their passengers."

Anuvu both licenses and develops games with a library that boasts 175 popular games including top video-game and mobile game brands. As the company expands their inflight entertainment options, airlines interested in elevating their passengers' travel experience can contact Anuvu to learn more at anuvu.com.
