AxoGen, Inc. to Host Surgeon Education Event at American Society for Surgery of the Hand 2014 Annual Meeting

Company to exhibit nerve repair technologies at Booth 205

ALACHUA, FL - September 16, 2014 - AxoGen, Inc. (NASDAQ: AXGN), a leading medical technology company focused on the peripheral nerve repair market, announced that it will sponsor an educational forum at the American Society for Surgery of the Hand (ASSH) 2014 Annual Meeting, taking place September 18-20 at the John B. Hynes Convention Center in Boston, MA.

The event, entitled "Nerve Matters", will focus on improving outcomes in surgical nerve repair, featuring a discussion by leading nerve repair experts on the latest science, research and innovative treatment approaches. Surgeon panelists will include Peter Evans, MD, PhD, Cleveland Clinic; John V. Ingari, MD, Johns Hopkins; and Bauback Safa, MD, MBA, FACS, The Buncke Clinic. It will be held on Friday, September 19 at the Convention Center in Room 208.

Karen Zaderej, President and Chief Executive Officer for AxoGen commented, "Surgeon education is vitally important given the vast amount of new research and our deeper level of understanding in recent years of techniques for improving outcomes in surgical repair of peripheral nerves. AxoGen is committed to supporting the surgical community by providing opportunities for peer-led forums on these best practices, and we are pleased to invite all surgeons attending ASSH to join this important session."

In addition to sponsoring educational forums, AxoGen will be exhibiting its full portfolio of nerve repair and protection technologies and products at Booth 205 at the ASSH meeting.
