The annual listing by Mortgage Technology receives hundreds of applicants and recognizes companies that focus on the continued advancement of technology and services, hold a viable revenue model and value proposition to customers, provide exceptional customer service and have a unique impact on the mortgage industry.

"Inclusion in Mortgage Technology's 'Top 50 Service Providers' represents a company's commitment to ongoing innovation and excellence, with particular emphasis on the nominees' most recent accomplishments," said Austin Kilgore, managing editor of Mortgage Technology. "The annual list continues to serve as validation of established mortgage industry participants who aren't content resting on their laurels, as well as the innovations and successes of the industry's up-and-coming service providers."

"We are proud to be recognized among the industry's best in providing business-critical technology, analytics and services that enable lenders to succeed," said Craig Crabtree, senior vice president and general manager, Equifax Mortgage Services.
