AMD and Mercedes-AMG Petronas Formula One Team Announce Multi-Year Partnership

— High-performance computing leader AMD, a technology supplier of supercomputing, simulation, PC and data center technologies, joins forces with the six-time consecutive Formula One World Champions —

SANTA CLARA, Calif., Feb. 04, 2020 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- AMD (NASDAQ: AMD) and Mercedes-AMG Petronas Formula One Team today announced a new multi-year partnership that combines the two companies' passion for extreme performance, starting from the 2020 Formula One™ season.

Key terms of the partnership include:

- The AMD logo will be visible on both sides of the cockpit of the team's 2020 Formula One car, on the drivers' race suits and team clothing and on trackside infrastructure.
- The Mercedes-AMG Petronas Formula One Team is piloting the use of AMD commercial solutions, including AMD EPYC™ server processors and AMD Ryzen™ PRO laptop processors, to optimize their various workstreams.

"At AMD, we are at our best when we create disruptive technologies that push the envelope of what is possible in high-performance computing," said John Taylor, chief marketing officer at AMD. "We are thrilled to join forces with the Mercedes-AMG Petronas Formula One Team, a team operating at the cutting edge of technology and with whom we are a shared spirit in delivering incredible innovation and performance from the factory to the racetrack."

"Innovation is at the heart of Formula One, we always try and push the technological boundaries in our hunt for performance," said Toto Wolff, Team Principal and CEO of the Mercedes-AMG Petronas Formula One Team. "We are delighted to have AMD join our team as a partner and we look forward to the journey ahead of us as we explore sophisticated solutions to unlock untapped performance potential."

The Mercedes-AMG Petronas Formula One Team will run its 2020 F1 car, including AMD branding, for the first time on Friday, February 14, 2020. Visit their website for more information.
