Q/C Technologies (Formerly TNF Pharmaceuticals) Commences Trading on Nasdaq Under New Ticker Symbol “QCLS”

Licensed technology positions Company at forefront of new quantum-class computing paradigm

NEW YORK--(BUSINESS WIRE)-- Q/C Technologies, Inc. (Nasdaq: QCLS), formerly TNF Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (Nasdaq: TNFA), (“Q/C” or “the Company”), today announced that its common stock will begin trading under the new ticker symbol “QCLS” beginning today at the market open.

The Company’s new name Q/C Technologies represents its recent strategic pivot into quantum-class computing with exclusive global rights to LightSolver’s light-speed laser processing unit (LPU), the world’s first light and laser-based computing system, for application in quantum class cryptocurrency verticals.

“The official transition to Q/C Technologies and our new Nasdaq ticker is an important milestone in aligning our public identity with the Company’s transformation,” said Joshua Silverman, Executive Chairman of Q/C Technologies. “With our focus on quantum-class photonic computing and exclusive rights to LightSolver’s platform for cryptocurrency applications, we are well positioned to advance our first-mover strategy and build sustainable value for shareholders. We look forward to sharing additional updates as we continue to execute on our plan.”

In connection with the name change and stock symbol change, no action is required from current shareholders, and the Company’s CUSIP number will remain the same.

About Q/C Technologies, Inc.

Q/C Technologies is pioneering the next generation of energy-efficient quantum class, high-performance computing infrastructure. Through a licensing agreement with LightSolver, Q/C holds exclusive rights to the use of innovative quantum-inspired laser-based processing units (LPUs) that solve compute-intensive combinatorial and physical problems at the speed of light. Q/C bridges a disruptive computing paradigm for high-speed photonic computing with cryptocurrency infrastructure development at scale, unlocking unprecedented performance and sustainability for next generation applications and post quantum security.
