

Environmentally Responsible Site Selection Policy

Plymouth REIT is committed to responsibly managing our environmental impact. As part of this effort, we assess the environmental impacts of developing all potential building sites.

Plymouth will avoid development on any environmentally sensitive areas such as farm land, designated habitats for endangered species, wetlands, or areas with high biodiversity.

Plymouth will avoid building on greenfield sites and focus on brownfield sites.

In all cases, we are committed to mitigating any site-specific, long-term risks that would impact environmental resilience, including the impact on drought, flood, wind, and wildfire risks.

This environmentally responsible site selection policy is incorporated into our larger, overall process for vetting and selecting potential building sites.
