Ball Announces Settlement

BROOMFIELD, Colo., Oct. 9 /PRNewswire-FirstCall/ -- Ball Corporation (NYSE: BLL) announced today that Ball Metal Beverage Container Corp. (BMBCC) and Miller Brewing Company (Miller) had settled their dispute regarding an alleged breach of contract by BMBCC.

Under the settlement, BMBCC will continue to supply all of Miller's beverage can and end requirements through 2015. Miller is one of BMBCC's largest customers.

BMBCC will make a one-time payment to Miller in January 2008 of approximately $70 million to resolve various business issues between the parties, who have also agreed to make certain adjustments to the provisions of BMBCC's supply arrangements with Miller. Further details of the settlement are confidential. The overall settlement will result in a third quarter charge to Ball of approximately $86 million (approximately $52 million after tax).

"We value Miller Brewing Company's business and are proud to have been a past recipient of numerous supplier awards from Miller. We look forward to performing to the same high level that merited these awards during the remaining eight-plus years of our contract."
