

Network-1 Receives Patent # 8,640,179 from US Patent Office for Additional Claims in Cox Portfolio

NEW YORK, Jan. 30, 2014 /PRNewswire/ -- Network-1 Technologies, Inc. (OTC BB: NTIP), a company engaged in the development, licensing and protection of intellectual property, announced today that the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office issued U.S. Patent No. 8,640,179 to Network-1 entitled "Method for Using Extracted Features From An Electronic Work." The claims in the newly issued patent are generally directed towards methods for using extracted features from electronic works to identify actions to be performed including, among others, inserting an advertisement or a link to a World Wide Web site for a variety of purposes.

The newly issued patent arises from a patent application contained in the patent portfolio (the "Portfolio") acquired by Network-1 from Professor Ingemar Cox in 2013. The Portfolio includes patents relating to enabling technology for identifying media content, such as music and videos, and taking further actions to be performed based on such identification including, among others, the insertion of advertising and the facilitation of the purchase of goods and services relating to the media content. Since the acquisition of the Portfolio, Network-1 has filed seven (7) additional patent applications relating to the original specification and anticipates further issuances of additional claims from this Portfolio.

Dr. Cox is currently a Professor at the University of Copenhagen and a Professor at University College London where he is Head of its Media Futures Group. In connection with the acquisition of the Portfolio, Dr. Cox provides consulting services to Network-1 with respect to the acquired patents and the related pending and future patent applications and assists in Network-1's efforts to develop the patent portfolio.
