The Top Benefits Award is based on an in-depth, data-driven evaluation of an employer's benefit offerings across four major categories: medical, ancillary (dental, vision, life and more), PTO and leave, and retirement.

The Top Benefits Award is based on an in-depth, data-driven evaluation of an employer's benefit offerings across four major categories: medical, ancillary (dental, vision, life and more), PTO and leave, and retirement.

Mployer independently rates benefit plans by analyzing their design, cost-sharing, generosity, and many other features—comparing them against a custom cohort of employers matched by their industry, region, and size. Only employers who meet or exceed market standards across these core benefit categories are eligible for recognition.

"We are honored to receive this award, which reflects our core belief that investing in our people is foundational to our success," said Shaun Polasky, Vice President of Human Resources at Helios. "Our benefits are designed to meet the diverse needs of our team and demonstrate how much we value their contributions. Being recognized by Mployer affirms that we're doing this in a way that not only supports employees but also makes us an employer of choice."

For Helios Technologies, a leader in industrial manufacturing, this recognition affirms a long-standing strategy to invest in its workforce. In a sector where talent is a critical driver of performance, offering best-in-class benefits is an intentional investment and a competitive advantage which leads to positive outcomes for our partners, team members and long-term success of the company.
