

Enriching lives through innovation

March 26, 2020

Dear Valued Supplier:

As the coronavirus COVID-19 situation changes rapidly, we are aware of instructions being given by municipal and state leaders throughout the country. These governmental instructions are unique to their localities and, by design, can and do vary, potentially causing confusion.

The U.S. Department of Homeland Security has designated the chemical industry as part of the critical infrastructure of the United States during the COVID-19 response. As a global manufacturer and marketer of thousands of chemical products to a broad range of customers and industries, Huntsman's continued operation is imperative for ensuring public health.

We are doing everything in our power to maintain operations while also prioritizing the health and safety of our employees. Many of our manufacturing facilities continue to operate, although with essential employees only. Because we depend on your supply of critical materials, by extension, you and your employees are also essential.

Please help us contribute fully to the critical infrastructure of the United States by maintaining a steady supply to our manufacturing sites. We are confident that Huntsman's continued operations are consistent with federal, state and local government instructions. However, given the occasional inconsistencies in those instructions, we also realize your drivers might face challenges from law enforcement. Should that happen, please have your drivers present this letter and work identification.

We truly appreciate your continued support. If you have any questions, please contact your usual Huntsman contact.

Best regards,

Mike Whisson
